The Wound Healing Center offers many specialized therapies to help you heal faster.

Slow-healing wounds are a serious health issue. From limiting your mobility to an increased risk of infection, an open sore can quickly become more than an inconvenience. If you have a wound that has not healed in 30 days, the Wound Healing Center can help. Our staff has special training in wound science and we offer many treatment options. From hyperbaric oxygen therapy to specialized wraps and dressings, we match the right therapy to your specific situation. Slow-healing wounds shouldn't be ignored – let us put you on the fast track to recovery.

Much of the success of your treatment depends on you. We'll count on you to follow directions carefully and watch your progress closely. You'll learn about caring for your wound at home including how to change dressings and how to protect yourself from further injuries. We're always here to answer questions and give you the support you need to heal.

Do I need a referral?

No. You may refer yourself.

Do I need an appointment?

Yes. An appointment is required to see a physician.

What happens at my first visit?

On the first visit the physician will do a wound evaluation and put together a treatment plan for you.

How many visits are normal?

Patients are normally seen once per week, and most wounds are healed within 14 weeks. Patient compliance is very important!

Does everyone receive hyperbaric oxygen treatments?

No. All patients are not eligible for hyperbaric oxygen therapy. We have two hyperbaric oxygen chambers, and the guidelines for their use are very strict. There are only 15 approved diagnoses for HBO therapy.

Does the Wound Healing Center become my primary care physician?

No. We take care of the patients' wounds. The primary care physician and the referring physician are kept informed of the patients' progress and treatment plan by way of our Wound Progress Reports.

Do you accept insurance?

Yes. As an outpatient department of the Marshall Medical Centers, we accept the same types of insurance that are accepted by the hospital.

If you answer yes to one or more of the following questions, please call the Marshall Wound Healing Center for an appointment.
